

Installation to the Sky-Watcher guider differs from traditional solutions of this type. Instead of clamps with adjustment screws, a movable platform with dovetail fixing was used. The platform is bolted to the piggyback attachment ("piggyback") on the telescope clamps, and the position of the guider can be precisely adjusted using the adjustment knobs. There was also space for a standard tripod screw - it is possible to connect a regular camera or a small refractor with this type of mounting.